

INDIANA GLASS TRAIL

MELT INTO INDIANA GLASS CULTURE

Artists and craftsmen have created work for more than a century to establish Indiana as home to remarkable, functional, and decorative glass. Connecting a trail of 7 counties, the Indiana Glass Trail links today's artists and glass-related venues throughout Eastern Indiana, bringing together the tradition and beauty of glass art so you can experience it first-hand. From artist studios and blown glass demonstrations, to glass-focused festivals and glass museums and classes, to the oldest glassworks in the U.S., this family-friendly trail highlights it all. Glass lovers have plenty to see and do in Indiana, and the trail brings it all together!

ANDERSON/MADISON COUNTY

Glass, in its most basic, everyday form, is utilitarian, a commodity. However, when guided by skilled hands it becomes art, rare and beautiful. Whether a spiral lifting skyward, a treasure commemorating a loved one, or a dome of color, Madison County boasts some amazing examples at Carol's Legacy Crystal, Anderson Museum of Art, Anderson University, and the annual Elwood Glass Festival.

RICHMOND/WAYNE COUNTY

Richmond is home to a collection of Louis Comfort Tiffany stained glass windows. The Reid Center (formerly Reid Presbyterian Church) boasts 62 Tiffany windows. Reid is thought to be one of only ten churches in the country which have all Tiffany windows. The Morrisson Reeves Library Tiffany windows are displayed overlooking The Reading Garden. They are excellent examples of Tiffany's secret technique known as "Favrile Glass."

WARSAW/KOSCIUSKO COUNTY

In 1911 Chicago's Johnson-Carlson Cut Glass Company came to Warsaw because their factory could not keep up with demand. What started out with 55 glass cutters 110 years ago has dwindled down to one. The original line-shaft, leather belts, and stone wheels are still operational! Visit one of the last American facilities practicing the art of cutting glass. Shop in-store and online.
